Six of eight Animal Control Commission members resign

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

Six of the eight-member Hancock County Animal Control Commission resigned Tuesday afternoon.

The resignations were tendered at an emergency 2 p.m. meeting at the County Civil Defense office in Bay St.

Louis after residents surrounding the construction site of the city-county animal shelter, on the west bank of the City sewage oxidation pond, presented a petition objecting to the facility.

The commission within the last 18 months has attempted to place the shelter at four sites, but objections by surrounding residents have prompted abandonment of these locations.

Cal Dumestre of Waveland, commission chairman, Wednesday told the City of Bay St. Louis ordered stoppage of construction at the lagoon.

He said foundation fill has been placed and prepared for construction at the site.

The resigning members are County Agent John Smith, Hancock Sanitarian Luis Fernandez, County Civil Defense Director Robert Boudin, Emile Holland and Dumestre of Waveland, and Esther Oschmann of the Bay Waveland Humane Society.

Dumestre said he has not been able to contact remaining members Jerry Commissie of Waveland and Lisa Cowan of Bay St. Louis to find out if they too would be resigning. He said those two members did not attend the Tuesday meeting.

A three-page letter to the County Board of Supervisors and the mayors of Bay St. Louis and Waveland states, "we are playing a game of 'Mission Impossible' with every handfull of people that can be frightened into objection by misinformed organizers." The letter also states that the US Navy Seabees of Gulfport which began site preparations for the latest shelter site would withdraw support of the project unless a site is provided within one week.

The Seabees agreed to provide free labor to build the facility.

Dumestre said the Seabees would not be able to work on a shelter building here for at least one year if the naval construction battalion withdraws from the project.

He said the county and city commissioners will spend new members to fill the vacancies. The organization failed in public relations by not publicizing "expensive" architectural models and plans for the shelter.

"We felt we shouldn't spend taxpayers' dollars for elaborate plans for an animal shelter," he stated.

Regarding objections by residents surrounding proposed shelter sites, the commission's letter lists:

Noise. Dogs bark when someone approaches their area. All sites selected have been away from any traffic areas of movement;

Odors. From the outset, sanitation has been the major aim of shelter design;

Disease. Capability of putting animals to sleep and sanitary disposal to include shipment to Jackson for analysis of suspected rabies cases was fully programmed;

Dumping of animals. No site selected was open to the public. All were off roadways. A plan for reception of animals was formulated;

Location. More than 600 feet from the nearest residence.

With the freely given advice of Dr. Harper LeBourgeois and our member sanitarians this commission was able to arrive at a building design that would eliminate these objectionable factors," the letter states.

Dumestre said that $15,000 deposited in an interest-bearing account is available for construction of the shelter.

The letter cites, "We have from the onset considered we were handling the taxpayer funds and made all possible requests for donations."

Dumestre stated, "There was no way I could serve on the commission anymore. It was becoming an eight-hour-per-day job."

When asked why sites were not selected in less populated areas of the county, Dumestre replied, "We wanted our experts on the committee, who would live in the cities, to be able to supervise the completed shelter regularly to avoid any problems. You can't expect a volunteer to travel 50 miles to do this."

BURGLARY ITEMS RECOVERED—A grandfather clock is checked by Bay St. Louis Police Chief Douglas Williams Wednesday which is one of several items taken from Bay St. Louis and Waveland residences. Bay Assistant Police Chief Jerry Gremillion said two juveniles were charged with the burglaries and turned over to the Hancock County Youth Court. Michael Trip, 21, of 411 Dunbar Ave. in Bay St. Louis, was charged on $10,100 bond and charged with receiving, harboring, possessing or transporting a small amount of marijuana. Police received a tip Tuesday which led to the arrest in a joint effort by local law enforcement agencies. Among those involved in the case are Gremillion; Bay Investigator Larry Davis; Waveland Investigators Robert "Poochy" Tartavoule and Sandra Henley; and Hancock County Investigator Alvin Ladner. RAPE SUSPECT ARRESTED

A Bay St. Louis man is being held in the Hancock County jail under a $32,000 bond on charges of rape and aggravated assault.

Bay St. Louis Police Chief Douglas Williams and Assistant Chief Jerry Gremillion, said Richard Weaver, 26, who gave an address of Bobby's Lounge on Sycamore Street in Bay St. Louis, was arrested Tuesday following an incident Sunday.

Gremillion explained Weaver apparently drove a car into a ditch on North Street in Pass Christian Sunday and began to hitchhike back to Bay St. Louis.

A Pass Christian couple with their infant gave Weaver a ride to Bay St. Louis, Gremillion said.

"Weaver obtained a knife from a friend of his in Bay St. Louis," the assistant chief said.

"He (Weaver) told his friend he needed it to do some work on his battery cables."

Gremillion stated the couple agreed

Ole Miss offers tax return help

Filling out even the short income tax return can be a trying experience, especially for people who have difficulty following the form's directions or who have questions about income or deductions.

Students in The University of Mississippi School of Accountancy are working with the Internal Revenue Service to help people file their income tax returns on time. The service is offered through the Volunteer Income Tax Assistance program.

Members of the Ole Miss chapter of Beta Alpha Psi, accounting honorary fraternity sponsor weekend sessions in which they counsel individuals, answer questions and help complete returns. This is the fourth year that the VITA program has been conducted at Ole Miss.

Two final help sessions will be conducted before the April 15 deadline for filing 1982 tax returns. Those meetings are scheduled from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. Saturday, April 3, and Saturday, April 10, in Room 100 of Conner Hall on the Oxford campus.

"We are here to offer free tax assistance to individuals with returns that are not complex," says Dr. Grover L.

Porter, professor of accounting and coordinator of the VITA program at Ole Miss. "The only assistance our students cannot offer people is in the area of business returns or complicated itemized returns."

An IRS representative is present at each of the sessions to offer advice on tax matters and to explain the agency's policies, Porter says.

Floyd Turner of the IRS Office in Tupelo states, "We are very supportive of programs of this type. We believe not only in helping people prepare their returns, but also in teaching them how to complete them so they will know how to prepare their own returns the next year."

The VITA program also is beneficial to participating students, who serve as tax counselors, Porter says.

"These students have all had tax courses as well as an IRS-sponsored workshop. This service program provides them with an excellent opportunity to work on tax returns and tax questions in a real-world setting. It also is valuable because it gives Ole Miss and the School of Accountancy another opportunity to serve the community," he adds.

Industrial park Indian relics too significant

INDIAN RELICS

An archaeological team from the University of Mississippi and parts of 1200 years in Port Bienville Industrial Park reported at a recent Hancock County/Fort and Harbor Commission meeting there are no significant Indian relics in that area.

Dr. David McNeill of Picayune, who conducted a study of the lot bought for the commission, found only a piece of broken clay pottery and several fire hardened pieces of clay he said were used to "chink" walls of a stick structure.

He said the Indians built stick huts and filled spaces between the sticks with clay.

"When one of the huts burned the clay hardened," he stated.

He exhibited several pieces of the hardened clay at the meeting which were etched with the fossil imprints of sticks used for construction of the hut. He estimated the pieces were formed between 300 to 500 A.D.

"Some sort of hut stood there (on Lot Eight), but that's all you can say," he noted.

The commission contracted Helser to conduct the archeological survey in an attempt to satisfy requirements of the State Mississippi Department of Archives and History before a construction permit can be obtained from the United States Army Corps of Engineers.

Gonzales Marine Enterprises, a firm building jack-up oil rigs in the lot, wants to build a launch ramp on the property.

Wilson Webre, commission executive director, noted the department must first give its approval stating that no significant historical relics exist in that area before construction begins.

In other business, the commission agreed to allow Quality Exploration of Mississippi, Inc., a new mineral exploration company, to extend a survey through the Port Bienville Park for a year.

However, the commission members agreed the no blasting will be allowed.

Commissioner Fred Bunting urged the commission to take action to prevent any damage to the underground water channels and block well systems.

"It's something takes six or seven months before the effects show up," he said.

Commission members agreed to have Webre explain the commission's desire to keep mining. They noted they wanted any possible contract with the company to stipulate the commission would not be liable for accidents and that the company will be held liable for any damage incurred on the property from their operations.

Also at the meeting, the commissioners decided to postpone action on a contract with the Louisville and Nashville Railroad for weed spraying of 22 miles of the Port's Short Line Railroad track—right-of-way into the park.

Webre said L and N is spraying track from New Orleans to Montgomery, Ala. He reported the company might spray the Port Bienville track for some $1,500.

Frierson noted a possibility of problems arising if the chemical spray drained from the track into surrounding pasture lands.

"It could be a sticky deal," he noted and the commission took no action.

The commission entered executive session to discuss possible business prospects in the park and then adjourned without taking action.

VIEW OF AGING
"Nova" presents the ways science is beginning to unravel the elusive mechanisms that control aging and aging. The Methuselah Syndrome" at 8 p.m., Sunday, March 25, on the Mississippi ETV Network. Johnny Kelley, 72 years old, has run in 50 Boston marathons and is still going strong. Max London, 100, works more than 40 hours a week at his furniture store. 742, Minnie Zeramby feels she is in her prime. "Nova" introduces viewers to these and other people who are old in years but carry on full, vigorous lives. "Nova" questions how they do it: is it all in their lucky genes, or are there ways more people could enjoy longer and healthier lives? In looking for a "clock of aging," scientists are investigating every possibility, from the molecular and cellular level to the brain. One scientist believes the brain may deliberately be sending out "self-destruct" messages. Another scientist tells "Nova" that experiments growing human cells in laboratory dishes may indicate that people have mechanisms to ensure death built into their cells.

Pearlington phone service expanding

In anticipation of continued growth in the Pearlington 533-531 exchange, South Central Bell has begun installation of some $84,000 of additional equipment in the Pearlington Central office.

Don Roberts, district manager, said connector terminals and additional switching equipment will enable the company to service more people.

In addition, the company is installing equipment which will enable customers to replace rotary dials with touch tone telephones if they so desire, he said.

"Touch tone dialing will be available near the end of May," he added.

"Touch-tone dialing is more convenient to use, as you make local or long distance calls by touching buttons instead of the longer process of turning the dial," Roberts added.

Bits 'n pieces

Beautiful weekend weather brought out a lot of motorist Saturday and Sunday.

Our beaches were full of sun bathers and traffic on the highways just like summer time.

Michael Ferry of Waveland was crossing the Bay Bridge Sunday morning a little after 11 when he like others on the bridge stopped to watch a waterspout in the bay.

He said it crossed the railroad bridge and it was an amazing site.

It has been some time since we have witnessed a waterspout, and can remember one time when there were more than half-a-dozen in the bay at one time.

Sunday morning while at the office, Bill Steele of Rhode Island stopped by with his brother Don of Bayou Phillips Community.

Bill, whom we met for the first time, is a retired linotype operator and wanted to take a look at our plant.

He mentioned as to how things have really changed since he started in the printing business.

Linotype operators are few and far between today as it is an occupation that photo typesetting and electronics industries are fast replacing.

It is always good to talk to the old-timers in the printing industry as it brings back many memories of the hot lead days.

We have had many college basketball games on television in recent weeks and we are sure many recall the squawking of the Ole Miss coach about the officiating.

Nolan Ladner of Bay St. Louis, who has more than 30 years of officiating experience in high school and junior college basketball games was telling us how he saw some very bad calls.

Remembering some of the games he called, Ladner was telling us of the 42 games officiated in a three-day tournament in Lyman. Several officials call the games today, but he was the lone official in that event.

The fee for calling a game when Ladner started his career was $1 per game.

We talk a lot about the carelessness attitude of many folks in regard to beautification of our communities.

This is a problem which is not unique just to Hancock County, but is nationwide.

We are happy to hear some local students are going to try to help Saturday by picking up trash along US-90.

Boy Scout Troop No. 86 members directed by Brother Dwight Kenny of St. Stanislaus High School will collect trash between 9 and 11 a.m. Saturday along the highway in Bay St. Louis.

We feel this is a good project for the Boy Scouts, especially since they are all boarding students at St. Stanislaus.

If we had several other groups of students collecting trash alongside other streets, possibly we would one day be proud of just how clean our community really is.

Warren Carver, the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce's beautification chairman, will welcome any group's offer to help. Just give him a call at the Hancock Chamber's office at 467-9048 and he will return your call.

We know Carver has been promoting beautification for many years and we hope this will be the year of success.

A big help for everyone would be for us all not to throw bottles, cans, paper and other trash alongside our streets and highways.

Think about it! You live here!

This is the last call for Hancock County residents to file their homestead exemptions with the assessor.

We have had since Jan. 1 to do this and April 1 is the deadline.

In a conversation with Assessor-Tax Collector Edward Murtagh this week he told us there are still some residents who have not filed yet in order to qualify.

A person qualified and not filing could end up paying twice as much taxes next year on his property by not filing.

Those of us who are early risers do not want to forget the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce's Morning Edition at 7:15 a.m. today at the Sirloin Stockade.

Capt. Martin J. Finerty Jr., USN, the scheduled speaker, is a resident of Diamondhead and is stationed at the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

We are sure he will give us some enlightening information on nuclear submarines and other naval operations.

Finerty is a graduate of the U.S. Naval Academy and as you know we have several young men from our area there now as students.

We are very happy to see State Sen. Martin Smith's involvement in the Legislature's efforts to extend the life of the Ethics Commission for another three years.

The commission is something we feel is needed very much in the State.

There has been far too much corruption in politics in recent years in our state and possibly the commission could curb this stigma.

As many of you know, the annual membership drive for the American Red Cross is underway in Hancock County.

Donaldine Lang, membership chairman says there are many different types of memberships available in the Red Cross.

The Red Cross are regular at $1-$4; sustaining at $5-$10; development at $20-$50; and award at $100 or more.

Persons interested in being a member of the local chapter can call Thelma Kergosien, executive secretary, at 467-4071.

The Red Cross does far more for Hancock County than the money it receives. Just remember how much was provided by the Red Cross here after Hurricane Camille worked us over.

It will be years and years before we repay all the money spent in Hancock by the Red Cross in that year.

So, if you are able, any donation to the Red Cross will be appreciated. We never know when we will need them again.

You may not know it, but Kergosien continues working weekly to help folks in contacting servicemen, their families and many other special cases.

Lead is a major component of environmental pollution, and its ill effect on health, particularly among young children, may be more widespread than commonly realized, says the American Medical Association.

High lead contents have been found in soils near industrial sources such as lead smelters, storage battery works and lead paint factories.

Lead added to automobile fuel as an "anti-knock" agent finds its way into the air we breathe through automobile exhausts.

Lead dissolved out of lead pipes in plumbing systems may be present in drinking water.

Agricultural insecticides containing lead may be present in food. Lead-glazed cookware and flaking lead paint are other possible sources of lead exposure in the domestic environment.

Although the total lead intake through food and water is usually several times that inhaled by air, only five percent is absorbed by the oral route compared to 30 to 40 percent by inhalation.

Severe lead intoxication can lead to irreversible neurological impairment and death. Symptoms of mild lead intoxication include loss of appetite, irritability, drowsiness, apathy and abdominal pain. Many other diseases share these symptoms, however.

Children are particularly susceptible to neurological damage from lead absorption. Lead poisoning and lead encephalopathy among young children in the United States is almost invariably caused by eating chips of lead-containing paint and plaster from World War II homes.

Acute encephalopathy in young children is followed by permanent neurological damage in at least 25 percent of cases.

Survey evidence reveals that lead intoxication among children is not confined to urban slums, as is commonly thought, but occurs with alarming frequency in smaller communities, especially in the vicinity of lead smelters.

Acute encephalopathy in young children is followed by permanent neurological damage in at least 25 percent of cases.

Blacks, whites found divided on many issues

Blacks and whites in Mississippi remain deeply divided on a number of political issues and blacks are significantly more disillusioned with state government and public officials than whites, a recent statewide telephone opinion poll has found.

The poll, sponsored by the political science department at Mississippi State University, found that blacks support social welfare spending much more than whites.

Some 83 percent of blacks support increased state spending to deal with poverty and 84 percent support increased state spending on health care, compared with 36 percent and 51 percent, respectively, for whites, the poll revealed.

Survey director Stephen Shaffer says while whites are split on whether taxes should be increased or spending cut to balance the state budget, blacks prefer increased taxes by a two-to-one margin.

"Blacks are also more liberal than whites on national issues," Shaffer says.

"Only 14 percent of blacks feel less should be spent on federal domestic programs like health and welfare, compared with 53 percent of whites," he reports.

Some 66 percent of whites feel more should be spent on national defense, compared to only 23 percent of blacks. Majorities of blacks oppose resuming the draft and ending court-ordered busing, while majorities of whites support the draft and oppose forced busing. In addition, 71 percent of blacks support strikes by public employees, while 56 percent of whites oppose such strikes, Shaffer explains.

As for blacks' disillusionment with state government, Shaffer says only 39 percent rate the quality of government in Mississippi "favorably as excellent or good," compared to 50 percent of whites.

Some 28 percent of blacks rate Mississippi as an excellent place to live, compared with 41 percent of whites, the assistant professor says.

"Blacks are somewhat less supportive of the state legislature and the governor than are whites, and they are significantly more disillusioned with both of the state's United States senators," he reports.

Shaffer says 75 percent of whites rate Sen. John C. Stennis' job performance favorably, compared with only 56 percent of blacks. Sen. Thad Cochran is rated favorably by 70 percent of whites, compared with a slight majority of 52 percent of blacks.

When asked how Mississippi public officials treat the races, Shaffer says 48 percent of blacks feel that whites are treated better than blacks are and 51 percent believe they are treated equally.

He adds, "Most whites—66 percent—feel the races are treated equally, with 23 percent feeling blacks are treated better than whites are and only 11 percent feeling blacks are treated worse than whites."

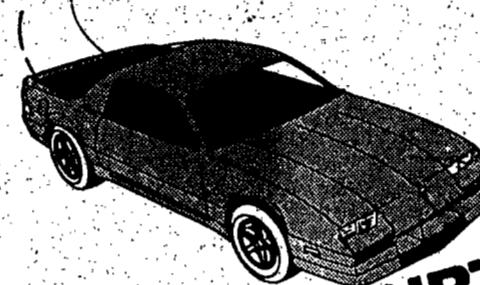

Shaffer says a major reason for black disillusionment with the state is "high unemployment and low salaries."

Some 31 percent of blacks feel unemployment is the major problem facing the state, compared with only 15 percent of whites. Among blacks who feel whites were treated better than they were, 31 percent mentioned greater unemployment among blacks as a reason, and 20 percent mentioned forms of racial discrimination in employment

State catfish industry 'bursting at the seams'

The state's catfish industry, literally bursting at the seams, reached another milestone in 1981 as the industry experienced the greatest growth in its young history.

Catfish production in the state increased more than 38 percent last year, bringing total production to almost 56,000 acres, said Dr. Tom Wellborn, leader, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service Wildlife and Fisheries Department.

The latest increase comes on the heels of successive surges in production which have propelled the industry from relative obscurity 20 years ago to a position of one of the state's leading agricultural enterprises.

The advance continued to place the state far ahead of the rest of the nation in catfish production. Outside Mississippi, only 22,500 acres of catfish ponds were reported in 1980.

The increase in 1981 acreage is not as great as last year, but the growth rate of the industry is still phenomenal, Dr. Wellborn said.

In January, trade in early 1981 Mississippi flatlanders indicated they would build an additional 30,750 acres of catfish ponds in 1982. That would have brought total production to more than 86,000 acres in 1982.

Of the actual 15,581 acres increase in 1981, 12,261 acres went into food fish production, while 13,177 acres were placed in engineering production, Dr. Wellborn said.

The greatest expansion in catfish production occurred in the Delta, Dr. Wellborn said. The total increase of 14,710 acres in the Delta represented 80 percent of the total increase in the state.

Now, acreage in the northeast Mississippi plains is reported to be 1,000 acres, the Delta now has 40,000 acres of catfish ponds in the area, and the Delta has 10,000 acres of catfish ponds.

With the 1981 increase, the Delta now has 40,000 acres of catfish ponds in the area, and the Delta has 10,000 acres of catfish ponds.

Bay St. Louis Little Theatre to present mystery classic

Combine six heirs, a will read 20 years after the death of an eccentric old man, and an escaped mental patient and what do you get? The Bay St. Louis Little Theatre's mysteriously funny and delightfully evil production of the John Williard melodrama, The Cat and the Canary.

Under the direction of Tim Bourgeois, the play displays the talents of Celeste Proulx, Ted Stechmann, Mike Hamm, June Lozano, Lady Carver, Jim Holmes, Rusty Blackwell, Lynn Stechmann, Dan Griffin, and Randolph Bourgeois. The theatre will present the play on April 1, 2, and 3 at the Theatre on Boardman Avenue.

Theatre doors will open at 7:30 p.m. with curtain time at 8:15 p.m. Admission is $4 and tickets will be available at the door.

Special features of this production include Thursday, April 1 as family night and Saturday, April 3 as champagne night, champagne will be served during intermissions.

Join the fun at the little theatre and see if you can unravel the mystery of 'The Cat and the Canary', says Rene' Hamm, publicity director.

UNO thespians to present

Say Goodnight, Gracie

Ralph Pape's comedy, 'Say Goodnight, Gracie', will be performed Friday and Saturday at 7:30 p.m. in the University of New Orleans Performing Arts Center.

A production of the UNO Resident Acting Company's 7:30 Season, the play concerns five members of the Television Generation about to turn 30.

Jerry, an actor with more ambition than talent, refuses to attend the group's reunion. The others attempt to lift his spirits, and the result is an evening of hilarious comedy mixed with poignant insights into an era of idealism and turmoil.

Cast members are Tim Ranoult as Jerry; Karl Matherne as Steve; Gerri Johnson as Ginny; Jesse Martin as Bobby; and Patricia Olson as Catherine.

The play is directed by Dennis A. Smith with set design by Kevin Moore and costumes by Judy Nelson.

Box office hours are 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. weekdays and one hour before each performance. General admission tickets are $4 and senior citizen tickets $2. For information call 286-6317.

Alcorn event hosts Washington official

Sylvester E. Williams III, assistant to the president at Shaw University, and regional program specialist to the Boston Regional Office of Education.

The program is designed to enable representatives of business, industry, government and educational institutions to cooperate with Alcorn in improving and expanding the university's services to the students, community, state, and nation," an Alcorn spokesman says.

The business and government participants bring knowledge of management, technological and material resources and understanding of the skills needed by college graduates. Alcorn, in turn, contributes its "existing facilities, culture, established educational programs and cooperative faculty to the program," the spokesman adds.

Dr. Franklin D. Jackson, academic co-chairman of the program says the immediate purpose of the cluster is to assist the university in providing quality educational programs to better prepare graduates for meaningful and challenging careers in the working world, especially non-traditional types of employment.

The program is supported by the National Alliance of Business.

All "cluster" members are urged to attend this conference.

Episcopal church women to sponsor 27th Annual Silver Tea

The Sea Coast Echo

THURSDAY, MARCH 25, 1982-1B

The Episcopal church women of Christ Church in Bay St. Louis will conduct their annual Silver Tea at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Merlin Markel, 56123 Diamondhead Drive East in Diamondhead, Wednesday, April 14, from 2:30 to 5:30 p.m.

According to Margaret H. Shadoin, "The public is cordially invited. No invitations are being issued."

This is the 27th year the tea has been conducted. The tea is one of two money making projects the Episcopal church women organize each year. The money is used to further the church's 'outreach program' through the women's ecumenical work in the community.

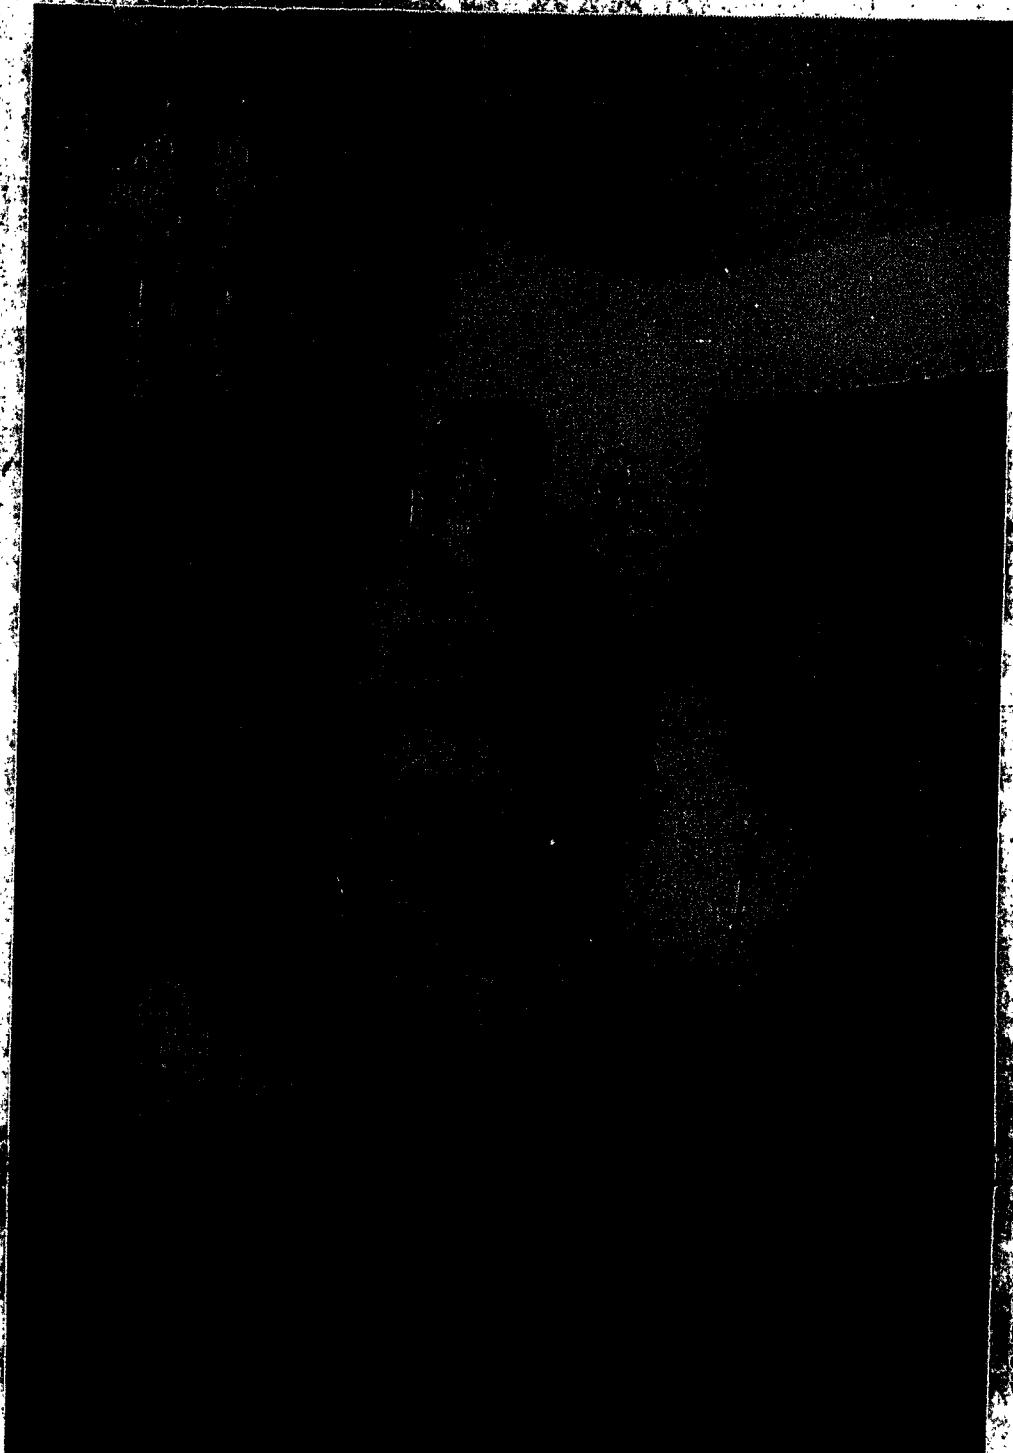

The Markel house is expected to be featured in an upcoming 'Southern Living' issue.

One of the many interesting features at the residence is a synthetic gardening technique being pioneered by Mr. Markel.

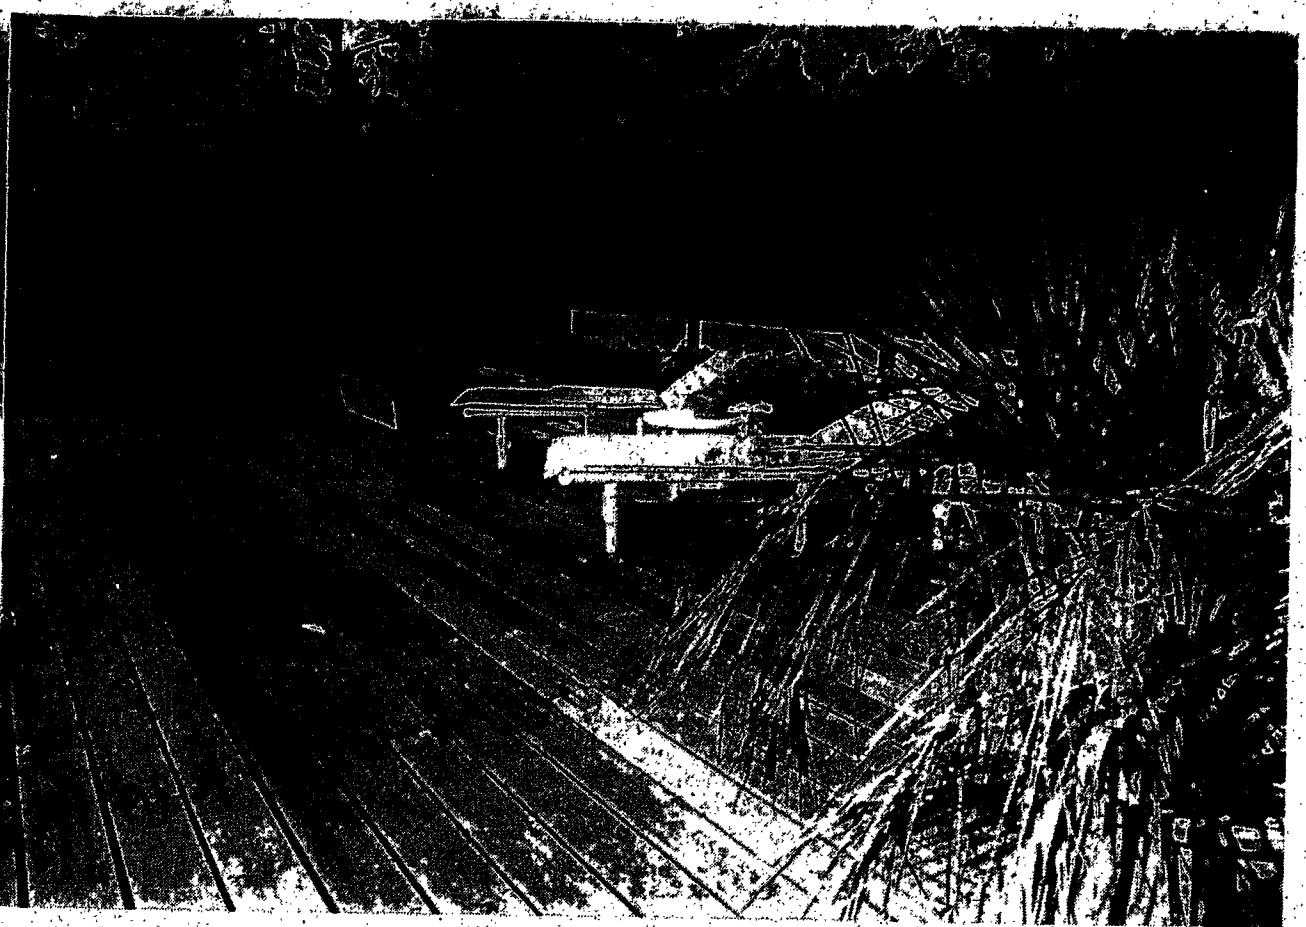

An assortment of vegetables are being grown in a Japanese garden in the back of the house in a special bank designed by Mississippi State University.

A deck above a game room in the house also contains plants and vegetables in pots, a type of gardening which Markel thinks will become 'the garden of the future' for apartment dwellers and home owners with limited space to plant.

Mrs. Dix Ashman is general chairman of the event. Other organizers include, Shadoin, Merry Montjoy and Suzanne Trueitt.

Lady Eagles to compete in tournament

The University of Southern Mississippi Lady Golden Eagles have accepted an invitation to play in the 14th Annual National Women's Invitational Tournament in Amarillo, Texas March 25-27 in the Amarillo Civic Center.

Oregon State, Florida State, Pepperdine, DePaul, Brigham Young, Illinois State and

Temple will also compete in the tournament and will compete each day of the tournament.

The Lady Eagles will face Oregon State in the opening round.

Leading the Eagles will be five-foot, nine-inch, freshman (Porkey) McDaskill from Portland, Oregon.

McCaskill led the team in scoring and rebounding with averages of 15 and 8 respectively. She also paced the team in steals (68) and blocked 18 shots.

McCaskill will be joined by five-foot, seven-inch guard Joye Lee of Hancock County, who averaged 12.4 points per game and 2.6 assists.

Lee leads the team with 7.2 free throw percentage.

The remainder of the line-up will include five-foot, 11-inch, freshman forward Wilhelmina (Cat) Smith, five-foot, five-inch, guard Dianne Backstrom and six-foot freshman center Juliette (Bird) Weaver.

Softball tourney raises $5,000

The Coors First Annual March of Dimes Softball Tournament at Milner Stadium in Gulfport resulted in Co-Champions.

After 72 games a cold north wind, accompanied by rain ended a recent weekend of play.

The Mr. Gatti's team from Jackson and the Huddle Lounge team from Covington, La. were the winning teams.

The VFW team from Harrison County finished third, and the Athletic Shop from Hammond, La. was fourth.

Danny Todd from the Mr. Gatti's team was voted the Most Valuable Player and Terry McGee from the Huddle Lounge hit the most home runs.

More than 5,000 people attended the tournament says Scott Edwards, tournament director.

"Good weather, good softball, and good food, all contributed to a successful weekend," Edwards reports. "Through the participation of spectators and ball players, and the efforts of many volunteers the March of Dimes raised $5,000 to continue its efforts to save our children from the tragedies of birth defects."

"The March of Dimes wishes to thank Coors for sponsoring the tournament. Also Barqs, Burger King, Clays Office Supply, Colonial

CERTIFIED PUBLIC ACCOUNTANTS

February 21, 1982
Hancock County Board of Supervisors
Bay St. Louis, Ms. 39520

Gentlemen:

We have reviewed the internal accounting control procedures, including the accounting records and supporting documentation, of the Purchase Clerk of Hancock County, Mississippi that we considered relevant to the criteria established by House Bill Number 975, Laws of 1974 and House Bill Number 670, Laws of 1975 of the Mississippi legislature. Our review included tests of compliance with such procedures during the period from October 1, 1980, through September 30, 1981.

Our review and tests of the records disclosed that on occasion purchases were made in the amounts of at least $500 but less than $1,500 without obtaining the necessary price quotations.

The objective of internal accounting control is to provide reasonable, but not absolute, assurance as to the safeguarding of assets against loss from unauthorized use or disposition, and the reliability of financial records for preparing financial statements and maintaining accountability for assets. The concept of reasonable assurance recognizes that the cost of a system of internal accounting control should not exceed the benefits derived and also recognizes that the evaluation of these factors necessarily requires estimated and judgements by responsible officials.

There are inherent limitations that should be recognized in considering the potential effectiveness of any system of internal control. In the performance of most control procedures, errors can result from misunderstanding of instructions, mistakes of judgment, carelessness, or other personal factors. Control procedures whose effectiveness depends upon segregation of duties can be circumvented by collusion. Similarly, control procedures can be circumvented intentionally by individuals. Further, projection of any evaluation of internal control to future periods is subject to the risk that the procedures may become inadequate because of changes in conditions, and that the degree of compliance with the procedures may deteriorate.

We understand that procedures in conformity with the criteria referred to in the first paragraph of this report are considered by the Board of Supervisors to be adequate for its purpose in accordance with the provisions of House Bill Number 975, Laws of 1974 and House Bill Number 670, Laws of 1975, and that procedures not in conformity therewith indicate inadequacy for such purposes. Based on this understanding and our review, in our opinion the purchasing records and internal accounting control procedures of the Purchase Clerk of Hancock County, Mississippi during the period October 1, 1980, through September 30, 1981, were adequate for the purposes of the Board of Supervisors and were in compliance in all material respects with the requirements of House Bill 975, Laws of 1974 and House Bill 670, Laws of 1975, except for the exception explained in paragraph two.

Respectfully submitted,

Juanita Street, Plaintiff versus
Noble Freeman, et al., Defendants.

SUMMONS

CASE NO. 15,856

TO: NOBLE FREEMAN, who is believed to be a non-resident of the State of Mississippi; whose last known place of residence, post office, and street address is Post Office Box 180, Waveland, Tennessee 37185, after diligent search and inquiry, and if he be dead, his unknown heirs at law or devisees; EDWARD ALBERT LIZANA, who is believed to be a non-resident of the State of Mississippi; whose last known place of residence, post office, and street address is unknown after diligent search and inquiry, and if he be dead, his unknown heirs at law or devisees;

ANY AND ALL OTHER PERSONS, having or claiming any legal or equitable interest in and to the hereinafter described property, to wit:

Commencing at a point where the South line of Citizen Street and the West line of Hancock Street intersect, thence North 70 degrees West 491 feet to a stake set for the place of beginning of the land hereby conveyed; thence South 20 degrees West 101.8 feet, more or less to the South line of Lot 15 of the Fourth Ward, City of Bay St. Louis, Mississippi; thence North 70 degrees West 48 feet along the South line of the said Lot 16 to a stake; said stake being set on the Southeast corner of the land conveyed by J. Lewis Henderson to Joseph W. Benoit and Edward M. Logarde, by deed recorded in Book K-8, page 183 of the Deed Records of Hancock County, Mississippi; thence North 20 degrees East 191.8 feet to a stake set on the South line of Citizen Street; thence South 70 degrees East 48 feet to the place of beginning, being part of Lots 15 and 16 of the Fourth Ward of the City of Bay St. Louis, as per plat by E. S. Drake, C. E., of said City on file in the office of the Chancery Clerk of Hancock County, Mississippi. Being the same land described in Book K-9, page 78 of the Deed Records of Hancock County, Mississippi.

You have been made Defendant in the lawsuit filed in this Court by Juanita Street, Plaintiff, whose address is 6955 Louis XIV Street, New Orleans, LA 70124.

The Complaint filed against you has initiated a civil action alleging legal ownership of the above described property and seeking a Confirmed Tax Title.

You are required to mail or hand deliver a copy of a written Answer either admitting or denying each allegation in the Complaint to George Lipscomb, Plaintiff's Attorney, whose address is P. O. Box 121, Bay St. Louis, Mississippi 39520.

YOUR ANSWER MUST BE MAILED OR DELIVERED NOT LATER THAN THIRTY DAYS AFTER THE 8TH DAY OF APRIL, 1982, WHICH IS THE DATE OF THE LAST PUBLICATION OF THIS SUMMONS. IF YOUR ANSWER IS NOT SO MAILED OR DELIVERED, A JUDGMENT BY DEFAULT MAY BE ENTERED AGAINST YOU FOR THE MONEY OR OTHER RELIEF DEMANDED IN THE COMPLAINT.

You must also file the original of your Answer with the Clerk of this court within a reasonable time afterward.

Witness my signature and official seal this 25th day of March, 1982. (SEAL)

One of the surest signs of Spring, aside from the gloriously rioting wisteria, the azaleas, the blackberry and dewberry blossoms, the fruit tree blossoms and such—is to spot fresh, greener than springtime asparagus nestled among the other produce in the markets.

Fresh asparagus is my budgetary downfall each Spring...but, really, I tell myself, not too exorbitant in price, when you think how delicious it is—and if you pare and prepare it properly, you've an extra divided, or "Lagniappe," the old Creole phrase for that "little something extra," in the form of a delectable pot of Cream of Asparagus Soup from the peeling and stalks.

There are those extra-fancy cooks who insist that asparagus, standing upright at attention, must be cooked in a special cooker, handled with special asparagus tongs and all that sort of nonsense would-be-gourmets spout at the drop of a cooking spoon.

Well, if you insist on cooking it upright, according to some outdated old rules, do so by all means, but don't invest in a costly "asparagus cooker," just cut both ends from a coffee or large juice can, and go on from there, putting the asparagus, in its can, in the boiling water, and so forth.

As for me, I cook asparagus in a large skillet, layering the stalks in one or two layers, according to quantity. I dash a bit of salt over, add about a generous inch of boiling water, and bring the whole business to a boil, uncovered. Then I cover the skillet and cook only five or six or seven minutes more, till barely, barely tender.

Then I drain the asparagus, and serve it plain, or with melted butter, sometimes a bit of Parmesan cheese sprinkled over, often parsley sprigs for an extra dash. As for Hollandaise sauce, I reserve that for frozen or canned asparagus tips, as I see no reason to mask the wondrous flavor of fresh asparagus with any sort of sauce.

(But, of course, this is for asparagus stalks properly prepared...just pare or scrape well, after washing thoroughly and rinsing to remove the grit. Cut off the woody or coarse stems, and reserve. I like to use a little, sharp knife rather than a peeler, and I have the finger scars to prove it. Trim to an even length—and proceed.)

When you cook asparagus this way, you don't have to let the stems cook more, the whole bit is so tender you can eat the whole thing—can you believe it?

As for the ends and peelings, chop 'em up a bit, chop or quarter an onion along with 'em, cover with boiling water and cook for a half hour or so, covered. Strain and mash the whole business, season up a bit, add milk or cream—and there's your cream of asparagus soup.

(Copyright, 1982, Katharine D.M. Caire)

P.S. So how can I give you exact quantities for this? How much fresh asparagus was in the package, how many

Annunciation students awarded in Catholic School Week activities

The Sea Coast Echo

THURSDAY, MARCH 25, 1982-1C

youth section

ASPIRING SCIENTISTS—Winners in the Klin Annunciation Science Fair conducted in conjunction with Catholic School Week are, from left: Georgina LaCoste of Klin; Tony Seymour of Picayune; Shelly Ladner, Sunny Arnona, Tina Hoffman and Bridgette LaCoste of Klin; Cherie Bauman of Picayune; and Kevin Bradley of Klin. Not shown is Christina Lang of Bay St. Louis.

Annunciation School in Klin celebrated Catholic School Week recently and published a school newspaper stressing the theme 'Good News in Annunciation.'

Students were required to write an essay or make a poster expressing the theme of Catholic School Week," Sister Margaret Theresa, RJM, principal, says.

Poster winners are:

Sunny Arnona, Frank Bernaso and Shelley Britain, all of the fifth grade; Jennifer Lee, of the fourth grade; Georgina LaCoste of the first grade; Allison Landry of the second grade; Kelton Ladner and Stephanie Seymour of the kindergarten class; Tina Hoffman, Tien Tse Schmitt, Nicole Bligh and Tami Peters, all of the third grade.

Sean McGee, a first grade and first place winner in the essay contest writes:

"We get new friends, we get nice teachers, we learn new things, we never stop working, we learn new things, we learn ten plus ten, and we learn 100 plus 100, we have lots of fun, children play with each other, I like the pets, Maurice is nice,

I love school, the teachers let us read the titles and the first sentence, we get hard papers, I like to go to church. We get nice friends."

Laura Vinot of the first grade and a second place winner writes:

"Make new friends, I learn love songs, I like Annunciation School, Annunciation School is nice, we have a nice school.

We have a nice teacher, we make girl friends, we make boy friends, this is a nice school, I love it here. I love all my friends, our teachers are nice, our friends are real nice, we do nice work, all my friends love Annunciation School, our teachers love it too, all of us love Annunciation School."

Paula Ladner of the third grade and a first place winner states:

"I like going to Catholic School because the students and teachers are friendly. Catholic Schools teach a religious background and will help me later in life. But most of all I like the visits the priest and sisters make. They also teach us to love, care, and respect others. They also teach us about Jesus. Bonnie Britain of the third grade and a second place winner states:

"Since I started Catholic School I have had a new life. Now I can learn about Math and things and learn about Jesus Too."

"I like my teacher, she is great. I have lots of friends. I love my friends, Mrs. Pat, Mrs. Betty and Sister Margaret Theresa, all help me. I even like my lunch. I'm proud when we have field day and I can win a trophy. Father Austin makes us happy when he comes to our class."

Brian Necaise, a first place winner in the second grade, writes:

"Annunciation School is a place I go to meet my friends, where we learn how to get along with each other. We are fortunate to have a school where we learn about God and about his world together. We have the best teachers to help guide us each day. All though we have rules to abide by we must realize that this will benefit us. I, hope and pray that Annunciation School will be here for many years to come."

Clinton Dixon, a second place winner in the second grade, notes:

"The school is a loving, sharing and caring school. You meet lots of friends. They share with you. The whole school is beautiful. Love makes the world go round. Catholic schools teach you about God, our Father."

Keri Richardson, a first place winner in kindergarten, states:

"I like this school because I have nice teachers and good friends. I love the world."

Tarah Deschamp, a second place winner in kindergarten, writes:

"I like coming to this school because I like it. I like homework and love my teachers. I like my friends. I learn to love God."

Jenifer Lee, a fourth grade student and first place essay contest winner, writes in 'The Key to Annunciation:

"Our catholic school called Annunciation is the most wonderful school. Annunciation is a happy and privileged school. The teachers aren't strict, but just firm. The people at Annunciation care for us and want us to learn right from wrong. We shouldn't just be like someone else, we should be ourselves. At Annunciation they show the ways of life in learning. Annunciation is not a regular school, it's a treasure. To open that chest we need to know ways of life. Some of the ways are: love, caring, generosity, cooperation, kindness, and respect. The only way we can open the treasure chest, is by knowing those ways of life. They are the key to open that treasure chest. So we should show much respect for the people at Annunciation and open that treasure chest."

Ryan Ladner, a second place winner in the fourth grade, writes in 'What's Good About Annunciation School.'

"What's good about Annunciation School is the fact that we not only have great teachers and aides, but we also have the church, priest, and nuns available to us."

"The students and teachers at Annunciation School know one another by name, and each of us can feel the warming love and respect from one another."

Billy Bligh, a first place winner in the fifth grade, notes in 'Kindness at Annunciation.'

"People in Annunciation are so kind. The teachers help me to learn better and faster."

IT'S CALLED

SQUIRRELING AWAY

Nearly everyone has heard about "squirreling away" — conservation for times of greatest need. And, of course, it comes from the squirrel, one of nature's smartest creatures, who methodically stores food for the winter.

So, too, at United Gas we annually have been squirreling away a different kind of vital necessity. During the warm season, when the demand is lower, we inject billions of cubic feet of natural gas into the porous limestone of storage formations. Here it is held safely until the winter demand goes up.

It's another way United Gas' foresight and investments of millions of dollars have helped keep the gas flowing during critical times. The lesson comes from nature, but our commitment to Gulf South energy puts it into practice.

Bay High student places in contest

A Bay St. Louis student was a winner in the Mississippi Engineering Society's 15th annual Engineering Model Contest in which finals were recently held in Meridian.

Mike Smith of Bay Senior High School was third place winner in the state competition.

Smith advanced to the state finals after first winning the supervision of the students' teachers in accordance with specifications provided by the Mississippi Engineering Society.

Prizes were awarded to winners of the regional events, who were then invited to enter statewide competition in Meridian. Judges' awards also were presented to students for special recognition.

School of Engineering and president of the state engineering society.

"The objective was to design, build, and operate a wheeled vehicle, propelled by a rubber band, that could climb a curved hill in the fastest time," he explains.

Models were built under the supervision of the students' teachers in accordance with specifications provided by the Mississippi Engineering Society.

The judges' awards for the southern regional competition went to Danielle Fendley and Trent Jennings of Picayune.

The contest was open to all Mississippi junior and senior high school students, says Dr. Samuel DeLeeuw, chairman of the civil engineering department in the Ole Miss Engineering Society.

Prizes were awarded to winners of the regional events, who were then invited to enter statewide competition in Meridian. Judges' awards also were presented to students for special recognition.

The applicant is requesting permission to conduct maintenance dredging operations in three canals on the Jourdan River Shores near Kilm, Hancock County, Mississippi.

USM school plans Friday celebration

The School for Children with Language Disorders at the University of Southern Mississippi in Hattiesburg will celebrate 20 years of service and progress at an Open House Friday, 9-4 p.m.

This school was established in 1962 as a pilot program for children with severe communication handicaps. Dr. Etoile DuBard, then at the Central Institute for the Deaf in St. Louis Mo., was asked to head the program.

SCLD has grown from three students to a current enrollment of 22 who receive instruction from three full-time language-speech pathologists certified in learning disabilities and/or as teachers of the deaf.

"Currently, under the sponsorship of the Minimum Foundation Program of the State Department of Education, United Way of Forrest-Lamar Counties and with supplemental funds from Public Law 89-313, the school operates an 11-month program of intensive language-speech instruction.

The parents observed the CVO room, their annual convention scrapbook, and banners.

OLG, CYO elects new officers

New officers of the 1982 session of Our Lady of the Gulf Parish Catholic Youth Organization were recently selected and inducted.

The officers of the Bay St. Louis group were officially inducted at a ceremony in the OLG Church recently.

The new officers include Chris Longo, president; Christy Gleber, first vice president; Jennifer Haas, second vice president; Socorro Alcalen, secretary; and Stacie Hile, treasurer.

The new officers were inducted in a candlelight ceremony by outgoing officers

Melanie Cuevas, president;

Brennan Collins, first vice president; Chris Longo, second vice president; Rhonda

Williamson, treasurer.

Plaques were presented to the departing officers and flowers were distributed to the senior members of the group, mothers of the seniors, and past and present officers. A special 'thank you' gift was also presented to Rev. Henry McInerny, CVO youth advisor, and Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Chapman, youth co-ordinators.

A reception was conducted afterward in the CVO room where friends, members, and parents gathered.

The parents observed the CVO room, their annual convention scrapbook, and banners.

College system offers early summer semester

An early summer semester has been added at Gulf Coast Junior College to accommodate people who want to begin classes prior to the regular summer session, Dr. J. J. Hayden Jr. announced.

Hayden, GCJC president, said the early semester will begin on April 5 and end on July 25. Registration will be on April 1 and 2 at the Jefferson Davis, Perkinston and Jackson County campuses.

"Only four courses will be offered," Hayden said. "They are English, psychology, oral communications and history. Each will be taught once a week from 6:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. on Monday through Thursday."

Students enrolling for the early semester "possibly will also be able to take courses during the regular day and evening session that begins May 25," Hayden said.

He said any person who meets college entrance requirements will be eligible to register for the early semester. "This includes students now in their senior year in high school."

Many high school seniors face the loss of Social Security educational benefits unless they are enrolled in a college before the May 1 cutoff date.

"The college policy is to admit seniors who have 15 or more units and the permission of high school authorities," Hayden said. "Those with fewer than 15 units might be permitted to enroll at GCJC, but any college credits earned would not be awarded until they had satisfactorily completed the required high school courses."

Hayden said in addition to the academic courses offered at the three campuses, the three vocational programs are available now to people who want to study in one of these areas.

"We have an open-entry, open-exit system that enables students to enroll in a vocational program every Monday, Tuesday and Friday. But he advised against doing this "unless the students are responsible enough to want to pursue a career in a vocational field."

Of the early semester

Hayden said, "If it is successful, we will probably try it again. Many people have indicated they are interested in this sort of thing and the college is happy to respond to their wishes," he added.

DuBard expects many of her former clinicians, student and friends to visit the campus for the open house. All interested persons are invited.

USM spring student event slated Friday

The University of Southern Mississippi spring celebration for high school seniors and junior college transfers is Friday in Hattiesburg.

The day is sponsored by the Office of High School and Junior College Relations and is designed to familiarize USM guests with the campus, its student and professional organizations, academic programs, student life, administrative offices, and service organizations.

Registration will be from 8-9 a.m. in Bennett Auditorium. An all-day information center will be available at the auditorium to meet special needs and to answer questions.

A general session will follow with a welcome to USM, entertainment from Southern Exposure and a presentation of special guests David Berry, USM poet and Roggin Collier, USM football quarterback.

Academic departments will be visited at 10:30 a.m. USM's Career Development Center staff will be available to council students undecided on a major field of study. The center offers individual career counseling, and has one of the leading career libraries in the south.

At noon, an open house will be in the USM Union. A special $1 lunch will be served and over 17 USM organizations will be available for information.

A seminar will be at 1 p.m. in Bennett Auditorium for students with questions about financial aid programs, admissions, part-time jobs and USM's summer Mini Quarter orientation sessions.

The student employment staff will be available to talk with students who may be affected by possible reductions in financial aid. Information on USM's Career Development Center and complimentary career testing will also be available.

Mini Quarter reservations can be made at the 1 p.m. seminar and information on the American College Test and the ACT Review may be obtained.

Dr. Karen Yarbrough, vice-president for academic affairs, says, "We are delighted to have prospective students visit with us and hope they have an enjoyable day on campus and learn more about the outstanding academic programs available at USM."

Waveland woman vying tomorrow in OST event

The Lady Luck Saloon back in the days of the wild West will be the setting as 15 ladies, including one Waveland resident, vie for the title of Ms. Tech tomorrow in Coville Hall on the Oklahoma State Tech campus in Okmulgee.

Natalie Darcy is a fourth trimester technical drafting and design student representing the Drafting Club.

She is the daughter of Mr.

and Mrs. P. LeGros of Waveland.

Representing various campus organizations are 15 separate candidates, attendants and escorts selected overall for the pageant.

Candidates will not only be vying for the right to wear the Ms. Tech crown, but a cash scholarship from the Pepsi Cola Bottling Co. will be given to the winner.

'W' Day events reported

High school students from throughout Mississippi and the Southeast are invited to attend spring 'W' Day at Mississippi University for Women in Columbus, April 2-3.

A number of activities are planned for 'W' Day guests such as campus tours, academic open houses and the annual songfest.

This year's theme for the social-club serenade is 'American Composers.' 'Songfest' begins at 7 p.m. April 2 in Whitfield Auditorium.

Other activities April 2 include a dance at 9 p.m. featuring 'Phillip, Paul and Patrol' and a production of 'Royal Gambit' at 8 p.m. in the Cromwell Communication Center Theater. The period play is based on the life and relationships of Henry VIII with his six wives.

Jim Alinder, MUW director of admissions, says "We are having activities that typify 'W' life to let students know what The W is all about. Friday shows the fun side, with Saturday morning dedicated to academic activities and information."

A parents' question-answer session, as well as a time for scholarship auditions, is on the agenda April 3. Information will be provided about academic programs and educational opportunities, cooperative education, the Honors Program and the ROTC program at The W.

"Spring 'W' Day should provide an opportunity for high school students to see the excellent facilities on campus and to have the opportunity to talk with faculty members in their area of interest," says Alinder.

Registration will be from 3-6 p.m. in the lobby of Frazer Hall. The registration fee, which includes room and meals on campus, is $5. For students arriving Saturday morning, registration will be from 8-8:30 a.m. in the lobby of Cromwell Communication Center.

For further information about Spring 'W' Day, interested persons should contact the Office of Admissions by calling 328-5891.

Bay women join new USM group

Two Bay St. Louis women are members of a new chapter of Gamma Beta Phi Society at the University of Southern Mississippi in Hattiesburg.

The society—including sophomores, juniors, seniors and graduate students—was installed at USM recently.

Membership is limited to students in the top 15 percent of each class. The USM chapter is one of more than 70 chapters in 11 states with membership exceeding 16,000 students.

Film workshop open to students

Southern Cinema at the University of Southern Mississippi in Hattiesburg, an organization designed to promote student filmmaking, will sponsor a beginning film-making workshop Saturday, April 3 and April 17.

The workshop is open to all interested students. Film-makers from Hattiesburg high, junior college, but is limited to the first 50 students to pre-register, a university spokesman says.

The first day will cover the use of Super 8 equipment and students will shoot a short film. The second day of the workshop will be devoted to editing and screening of the student films. A $100 tuition basic television studio will conclude the day's activities.

Participants are invited to pre-register by March 23. For additional information contact Conference and Workshops at 601-268-4188.

Professor to speak to County USM alums

Dr. Robert Burr Cade, assistant professor of radio, television and film at the University of Southern Mississippi in Hattiesburg, will be guest speaker when local alumni and friends of the university celebrate USM Day.

The Hancock County Chapter of the USM Alumni Association will meet for coffee on March 30 at 7 p.m. at Scafidi's Wheel Inn

Restaurant on US 90 in Bay St. Louis.

Charlotte Piazza of Waveland is president of the chapter.

Cade holds BA, MA and PhD degrees from Southern and has been a member of the RTVF faculty since 1974.

In addition to other teaching experience he has also worked at WDAM-TV in Hattiesburg and at several local radio stations in Hattiesburg.

IF YOUR AUTO INSURANCE PREMIUM HAS INCREASED, AND YOU ARE WONDERING WHY.....

Over the past several years, inflation has sent prices skyrocketing. Medical care, auto repair, and property damage costs - things that insurance pays for - are no exception. What can you do to keep your insurance costs down?

- Carry higher deductibles on Comprehensive and Collision coverages.

- Practice good driving habits so you can establish a "clean driving record" whereby you receive the lowest possible premium rate.

- If you are a young driver, take an approved driver education course; you may be eligible for a premium discount.

- If you are a young driver or if there is a young driver in your household, look into the "good student" discount.

We would be more than happy to discuss your insurance needs; just come by our office.
